The Old Ranch House Comedian

Visit Bob Hull, comedian and owner of the Old Ranch House in Leopolis, WI, only a few miles from the Piotraschke Homestead.

The Town of Leopolis, is in itself, a historical marker for the Piotraschke heritage as three of Albert & Alvina's granddaughters married young men of prominence in this once thriving community.

- Val married Milton Pavonka, owner of Pavonka's Saloon, Boarding House and Town Hall. (No longer standing)
- Margie married Jack Schmidt, owner of Schmidt's Grocery Store. (Still standing – is now the Whistles Restaurant.)
- Janet married Jack Thiel, brother to Paul Thiel of the Milwaukee Brewers and owner of Thiel's Bar. (Still in business today)

Saturday's Open Venue on the Farm

Spend the day relaxing on the Family Farm, enjoy a walk through the marsh, taste "Fresh" cheese curds, camp out or take one of the many family by-gone tours!

If hiking the marsh, be prepared to swat a few mosquitoes.

The Buckbee Ghost Town Tour - Approximately a 20 minute tour.

Stare northwest when standing on the hill where Albert & Alvina built their farm and you will see the old ghost town. Along the gully overflowing with sumac and maple trees lays the foundation of the saw mill. The field north of the Vollmer residence is where the general store stood before the city was engulfed by flames. It was once a 10 minute walk to get groceries and mail.

The Belle Plaine Ghost Town Tour - Approximately a 1 hour tour.

Behind Tif's Tap, a Mafia hang out years ago, the foundation of the old Road House where Herman Piotraschke once worked & lived lays buried beneath a tall pine forest.

In the early 1900's, tourists would get off the train in Belle Plaine and then receive a boat ride to the Rustic Resort. A strikingly beautiful young city that provided sensational hospitality.

Along the main drag in down town Shawano stands the Wisconsin House Inn. During his later years, Herman lived, worked and eventually died at this once prestigious lodge.
